RESURREXI ET ADHUC TECUM SUM, ALLELUIA

The resurrection of Christ is the consummation of the Incarnation (the Christmas mystery) and of the Passion. St. Paul reveals the meaning of Easter when he writes to the Corinthians, "And if Christ be not risen again, your faith is vain, for you are yet in your sins. Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ are perished" (I Cor. 15:17!). Even the Incarnation and the Passion are not sufficient in themselves. "He was delivered up for our sins", the Apostle tells us (Rom. 4:25), that is, to deliver us from the death of sin. But it is not enough to be delivered from death. We stand in need of life, the full and everlasting life of God. It was that He might give us this life that He arose from the dead, "and [He] rose again for our justification" (Rom. 4:25). He arose that He might communicate to us that perfect life that He had earned for us through His death, and which was first seen in Him, the "first fruits of them that sleep" (I Cor. 15:20). Through the paschal mysteries the Church and mankind itself enter with Christ its head into the glorified life. We had been created for this life from the very beginning. But we lost our right to that life through Adam's sin. Through the resurrection of Christ we have regained our right to it. This is the source of all the joy of Easter and for the continual heartfelt alleluias. The spirit of Eastertide is a spirit of sincere gratitude to the risen Christ, through whom we possess eternal life. "I live, and you shall live". We should acquire this spirit of joy, a spirit, which will lift us above sin and the world and death. The risen Christ will give us the strength to overcome the powers of darkness and death. We must have a spirit of hope. We shall, since Christ rose, most certainly rise on the last day, and our bodies shall be awakened to eternal life. "I shall not die, but live." We should have an unshakable faith, for Christ arose from the dead. His resurrection attests to His divinity and the truth of His doctrine. Easter sets a new task before us. We must now begin to live the life of the new man. Benedict Baur

FATHER SAFREED'S REFLECTIONS

THE PASSION OF THE CHURCH - CONCLUSION

In the first installment of this series on “The Passion of the Church,” I stated that the meditations presented concerning the dreadful state of affairs in the Church were to give us some hope and consolation. The Church will rise again after the manner of her Bridegroom Jesus Christ, mirroring His Resurrection — this we know for certain — so there is no room for despair. With this in mind, we conclude our contemplation of the Lord’s Suffering in the Mystical Body with the words of Cardinal Manning:

As the wicked did not prevail against [Christ] even when they bound Him with cords, dragged Him to the judgment, blindfolded His eyes, mocked Him as a false king, smote Him on the head as a false Prophet, led Him away, crucified Him, and in the mastery of their power seemed to have absolute dominion over Him, so that He lay ground down and almost annihilated under their feet; and as, at that very time when He was dead and buried out of their sight, He was conqueror over all, and rose again the third day, and ascended into heaven, and was crowned, glorified, and invested with His royalty, and reigns supreme, King of Kings and Lord of Lords — even so it shall be with His Church: though for a time persecuted, and, to the eyes of man, overthrown and trampled on, dethroned, despoiled, mocked, and crushed, yet in that high time of triumph the gates of hell shall not prevail. There is in store for the Church of God a resurrection and an ascension, a royalty and a dominion, a recompense of glory for all it has endured. Like Jesus, its needs must suffer on the way to its crown; yet crowned it will be with Him for all eternity. Let no one, then, be scandalized if the prophecy speaks of sufferings to come. We are fond of imagining triumphs and glories for the Church on earth — that the Gospel is to be preached to all nations, and the world to be converted, and all enemies subdued, and I know not what — until some ears are impatient of hearing that there is in store for the Church a time of terrible trial: and so we do as the Jews of old, who looked for a conqueror, a king, and for prosperity; and when their Messiahs came in humility and in passion, they did not know Him. So, I am afraid, many among us intoxicate their minds with the visions of success and victory, and cannot endure the thought that there is a time of persecution yet to come for the Church of God.

So, as we mourn the mystical death of our Mother the Church, let us equally be aware that a Resurrection awaits for it as it did with Christ Himself. Whether it is a blessing or a curse to live in our time is totally up to you. Whether you sink into fear and despair or rise with courage and hope is the choice of the individual Catholic, who is meant to suffer the burdens of Christ and the Church because we are a part of the Mystical Body, remembering that we will be crowned gloriously with Christ after enduring this Tribulation. It is the hope of Easter in our time.

DRESS POLICY

When attending any functions at the chapel, especially Holy Mass, you are in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament. Please dress accordingly, with due modesty and respect. Everyone should refrain from jeans, shorts or T-shirts. Ladies, please use a head covering, available in the rear of the church either for loan or for purchase.

Remember, also, Lord, Your servants and handmaids below who are gone hence before us, marked with the sign of faith, and sleep the sleep of peace. To them, Lord and to all that rest in Christ, grant, we implore You a place of happiness, light and peace through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.
